Broaden your capabilities for locating hard-to-find debtors

Quick and cost-effective debt recovery calls for a broad range of resources to locate delinquent consumers. That's where Address SearchSM — a skip-tracing/collections tool for creditors and collection agencies — comes in. Address Search adds leverage to your collection efforts by expanding your ability to locate hard-to-find debtors.

Extensive, reliable data from File OneSM

When you're tracking down debtors, both the quantity and the quality of information count. Address Search significantly enhances your opportunities to find delinquent accounts with extensive, reliable data on more than 215 million credit-active consumers from Experian's powerful File OneSM database.

Beyond providing you with the debtor's other known addresses, as reported to Experian[®] — increasing opportunities to make direct contact with the consumer — Address Search supplies names and contact information for other individuals, including potential relatives, associated with the same input address. This immediately fortifies your search effort with additional contacts who may have information that can lead to your otherwise elusive debtor.

Comprehensive consumer information

For each address submitted, the Address Search profile will return data for up to 20 consumers associated with that address, displaying only nonpermissible purpose information (to protect the privacy of those listed other than the debtor), which includes:

- All names and addresses for each consumer
 - Up to four addresses for each consumer
 - Phone numbers for each consumer (with Demographics Band option)
- When more than one consumer matches the inquiry address, consumers are displayed in order of when the inquiry address was last reported on their file to Experian, beginning with the most recent

Address Search benefits

- Quick access to other known addresses for debtors, plus additional names, addresses and phone numbers of contacts to facilitate location
- Streamlined, relevant and easy-to-read reports
- Enhanced productivity
- Boosted recovery rates
- Increased profitability

The shortest route to recovery

Address Search speeds your recovery efforts because, unlike other address tracing products on the market, each report is displayed in a concise, uniquely streamlined format that expedites your ability to associate the debtor with parents, spouses, siblings and other relatives. The upshot is that instead of wasting time interpreting the information, you're acting on it — making contacts, maximizing productivity and shortening the route to recovery.

Address Search is the most cost-effective tool of its kind, and with Experian, you're not paying for information you don't need. You're getting up-to-date and focused on-demand data that facilitates your objective of finding the consumer and recovering the debt.

Convenient access

Fast, convenient Internet access to Address Search is available via Experian's Subscriber Services. Address Search also is available in ARF and TTY with an ADR-keyword (per each address).

Get the Address Search advantage

Bottom line: Maximizing the tools available to you also maximizes your potential for successful recoveries — which translates into increased profitability. Can you afford to be without the advantages of Address Search?
